Back from ESOF 2014 - a great experience

The EuroScience Open Forum 2014, Europe's largest science event took place in June and CommNet was there: a great opportunity to increase our outreach!

Many drop-in sessions took place at the CommNet stand across the five-day event and gave attendees easy "take aways", useful nuggets of information about how to better communicate project results to stakeholders.

The CommNet Impact Awards were also officially launched at ESOF 2014; this is an exciting opportunity to showcase your communication work to a European audience! To enter your project, take a look at our information page and web application form. The closing date for entries is 19th September 2014.

In October CommNet will be at SIAL - Salon International de l'Agroalimentaire - and will organise a workshop: visit our website for more information!

Projects' life

Antonio Marquez – Improving seafood safety

New research is underway that aims to improve detection of seafood contaminants that could be used in prevention and to assess their impact on public health.

Airbags for ships save lives, environment and cargo

Innovative rapidly inflating balloon technology could keep damaged ships afloat. But more fine-tuning needs to be done and there are some concerns about reliability.
